Community Education

Lewisville ISD's community education program offers a wide variety of opportunities for community involvement. Enrollment in community education classes and seminars continues to grow as course selection options are varied to meet the needs of the citizens.

The Adult and Community Education Program provides a variety of opportunities for all ages. From senior citizens to area business leaders, LISD provides educational avenues for every interested citizen. In addition, undereducated adults are served by a strong volunteer literacy program in cooperation with LISD's formal GED preparation, ESL, and citizenship program. Enrichment classes and activities in the continuing education area are increasingly developed to produce marketable skills.

LISD's Community Education Advisory Council was named the "Outstanding Advisory Council in the Nation" in 1988 by the National Community Education.

Community education is a vital part of LISD.

Community education:

- gives citizens the opportunity to share their skills and talents with others in the community
- encourages cooperation between various agencies
- eliminates costly duplication of facilities and services
- encourages greater citizen involvement in a community's decision-making process
- provides lifelong learning and enrichment opportunities for all citizens
- narrows the gap between the school and the community
- provides alternative activities which could combat vandalism, juvenile delinquency, crime and other school and community problems
- assists citizens in receiving needed services from public and private agencies
- organizes the people in the community so that they will be able to effectively handle community problems

HIGHER EDUCATION

University of North Texas. UNT was established in 1890 as North Texas Normal College. Today, the university has an enrollment of more than 27,000 and is the fourth largest university in Texas. UNT has a full-time faculty of more than 770 supplemented by more than 1,134 adjunct staff members and teaching fellows. While the majority of UNT's students attend classes on the 412 acre Denton campus, the university also offers numerous courses at many off-campus sites throughout the Metroplex. The most comprehensive university in the region, UNT is divided into eight colleges and schools and currently offers more than 135 graduate and undergraduate majors. The university is best known for its colleges of education and music. In addition to its academic functions, UNT sponsors many cultural activities, including concerts, recitals, art exhibits and plays, many of which are free to the public. UNT also offers customized professional and technical training to outside businesses. The Department of Industrial Technology has provided such service to Texas Instruments and Boeing, both in Denton County.

Scientists at UNT work with more than $14 million in grants and contracts from local, state, federal and private agencies. UNT is involved in research partnerships, including applied robotics, with a number of private business and industries. The North Texas Research Institute (NTRI) is housed in the state-of-the-art, 60,000 square-foot Science Research Building. Information: 817-565-2000.

Texas Woman's University. Established by the Texas Legislature in 1901, Texas Woman's University has become the nation's largest university primarily for women with approximately 9,500 students enrolled on four campuses- the 270 acre main campus in Denton, the Dallas Center, with campuses in the Parkland and Presbyterian hospital complexes, and the Houston center, located in the Texas Medical Center. TWU is among the nation's leading providers of health care professionals. Through its University General Divisions, Institute of Health Sciences, and Graduate School, TWU offers programs in nearly 100 major fields leading to the bachelor's degree in 77 areas, the master's degree in 72 fields, and the doctor's degree in 42 areas of specialization. Qualified men as well as women may enroll in the Graduate School and Institute of Health Sciences. Under the exceptions of Title IX, only women may enroll in the Undergraduate General Divisions.

TWU faculty-scientists do basic and applied research, working with business and industry as well as state and federal agencies. Included are testing and making biological compounds; research on textiles, dry cleaning and stain removal; nutrition and health assessments; testing on food products and packing; and other areas.

Both UNT and TWU are located in Denton, easily accessible via I-35, 13 miles north of Lewisville. For more information call 817-898-2000.

North Central Texas College. NCTC, the oldest two-year college in the state, offers a variety of technical training programs, basic academic courses including health occupations. In addition, NCTC offers training programs in vocational fields with low tuition rates. Students completing programs at NCTC are awarded the Associate of Applied Science Degree. The main campus is located in Gainesville 43 miles north of Lewisville. NCTC's Lewisville extension program offers several courses at various locations within the city. Their Lewisville office is located at 189 Elm, 420-0089, Doug Willis, Director of Student Services. Gainesville information: 817-668-7731.

WORK FORCE FACTS

In Lewisville you will find a young, productive, non-union work force. You will also find that Lewisville offers some of the most competitive wage rates in the country. Lewisville can provide the quality labor force businesses need - now and in the future.

- While a labor shortage is predicted for many parts of the nation in the coming years, the Lewisville-area labor force growth rate is projected to exceed the national average.
- The Lewisville area consistently experiences lower rates of unemployment (3.7% average in 1994) than both the state and nation. The lower rates of unemployment are generally a result of the area's mix of business activity and the impact of the City's strategic location to the Dallas-area job market and DFW International Airport.
- Lewisville is within a forty-five minute commute to all of the DFW CMSA's 2.3 million non-agriculture labor force.
- The Lewisville labor force grew 98% between 1984 and 1994. This increase far exceeded the 30% growth rate for the state and 19% growth for the U.S. Texas ranks third in the nation in the percentage of its work force with at least four years of college.
- 26% of Lewisville's population has four or more years of college education, ranking it well above the national average and the state average of 17%. Sixty-four percent of the area's occupations require a high school education or more.
- The Dallas/Lewisville area's average hourly manufacturing wage is $11.28. Of the 15 most populous states, Texas has the fifth lowest manufacturing wage rate, even though Texas manufacturing jobs are concentrated in relatively high-wage industries.
- Lewisville's manufacturing employment totals about 5,000, with Texas Instruments as the City's largest employer. The area has over 70 manufacturers. Boeing Defense and Space Electronics is located just north of Lewisville.
- 54% of the population in Lewisville is between the ages of 18 and 44. Our young population means faster population and labor force growth in the future.

- Lewisville's largest employment sectors include: services 28%, wholesale and retail trade 25% and manufacturing 21%.
- The service and transportation employment sectors are expected to see the largest growth rates in the area through 1996 with annual growth rates of 3% or higher.
- Training in Lewisville is available through both state and federal programs.
- The total Denton County labor force rose to 188,000 in 1995.
- Denton County's sizable electronics sector, with 45% of all manufacturing employment, jumped from 2,700 in 1982 to 5,700 in 1991, a gain of 3,000 jobs.
- The Dallas area is the nation's top personal computer manufacturer and the world's fourth leading software developer. The area is also the nation's third leading employer in electronic components. The Metroplex ranks among the top five employment centers in computer hardware, telecommunications equipment and precision instruments. The Metroplex also hosts the nation's fifth largest pool of workers employed in executive, administrative and managerial occupations. The Metroplex ranks sixth in the nation in terms of the size of its workforce with skills in machine operation, assembly, precision production, crafts and repairs.
- The Metroplex hosts 16 of the state's top 25 Texas-based high technology firms. The Dallas area produces 57 percent of the state's electronic manufactured products. The area also has the highest percentage (8%) of employment in high-tech industries.
- The Metroplex is ranked fourth in the nation for the number of Fortune 500 corporate headquarter locations it hosts.
- By the year 2010, North Texas is predicted to be the fourth largest region in the U.S. in terms of employment and population.
- Texas has the largest population of people under 20.
- Texas is the nation's largest right-to-work state and one of only 19 states to have this distinction.
- Texas has the fourth lowest percentage of unionized employees among the 15 most populous states, 10th lowest among the 50 states.

- Texas is home to 25,000 high-tech firms and more scientists and engineers than anywhere else but California and New York.
- Texas has led the nation in job growth since 1990.
